Water Quality Monitoring Program - Using CWA Section 106 grant funds, the Tribe has been continuously monitoring Clear Creek which runs through the Rancheria. Analysis of water samples are done onsite using their own lab. They just received EPA approval for a recently updated Quality Assurance Project Plan (QAPP) with Bob Hall's assistance (WTR Division employee).

Previous CWA 319 base funded activities along Clear Creek included the regrading of eroded riverbank slopes, removal of invasive species, and bank stabilization projects using native vegetation.

GAP/Overall – The Tribe has received GAP funding since 2000. Early efforts included removing a dump from the bank of Clear Creek and encouraging businesses to recycle, install energy efficient lighting, and utilize a cardboard bailer and trash compactor. Redding conducts large earth day events annually; 70 vendors and over 400 people participated in 2015.

Tribal Materials Management - Redding Rancheria has not completed an Integrated Solid Waste Management Plan (ISWMP). Tribes develop ISWMPs as a road map for their solid waste operations and materials management program. Information in the ISWMPs help tribes initiate programs such as recycling and enforcement, and allow tribes to qualify for funding to clean up open dumps. The Zero Waste Section is available to assist the tribe by providing templates and examples, and coaching tribes through the writing process. Contact: Deirdre Nurre, 415-947-4290
